ESTABLISHED JUNE FIFTH, NINETEEN HUNDRED

VOLUME XXV—NO. 130. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1924. TWO CENTS

COOLIDGE, WITH 379 ELECTORAL VOTES, SWEEPS THE COUNTRY

May Be a Switch of Three Votes From Davis to Coolidge In New Mexico—All the Other Doubtful Commonwealths, Wavering Through the Night, Turn Definitely to Coolidge Column

HOUSE WILL BE REPUBLICAN, SENATE IN DOUBT

Presidency Settled, And Chief Interest Now Centers In the Complexion of the Next Congress—House Is Assuredly Republican, With Republican Gains, Three of Them In Davis Own State of West Virginia, But Senate Remains In Doubt

New York, Nov. 5.—Coolidge 379, Davis 139, and LaFollette 13.

With the possible exception of a switch in New Mexico, the three votes from Davis to Coolidge, this will be the standing of the presidential candidates in the electoral column when final tabulations are in.

In New Mexico, where the count is always slow, the Democrats waged a strong fight against "Fall" rule and the stigma imposed upon the former secretary of the interior by the oil scandal was expected on the face of early returns to defeat President Coolidge in the state.

All the other doubtful commonwealths turned definitely into the Coolidge column today, after wavering throughout the night. And Montana, where Senator LaFollette was making a strong bid for the electoral vote, the day's tabulation showed steadily increasing margins for President Coolidge.

With the presidency settled, chief interest centered in the complexion of the next congress.

The House is assured safe in Coolidge's hands with material Republican gains, three of them in Davis' own state of West Virginia. The Senate, however, is still in doubt.

New York, Nov. 5.—President Coolidge has swept the country for re-election, and, according to United Press returns at an early hour today, has taken with him to Washington a clear working majority in both House and Senate.

The scope of his victory is told in the definite indication that at least 30 states with a total electoral vote of 354 had swung into the Coolidge column, while John W. Davis appeared to have captured but 13 Southern states, including Tennessee, for a total electoral vote of 136.

Senator LaFollette had such a lead in Wisconsin on the basis of convincing returns early today that his home state's 13 electoral votes seemed to be safely his.

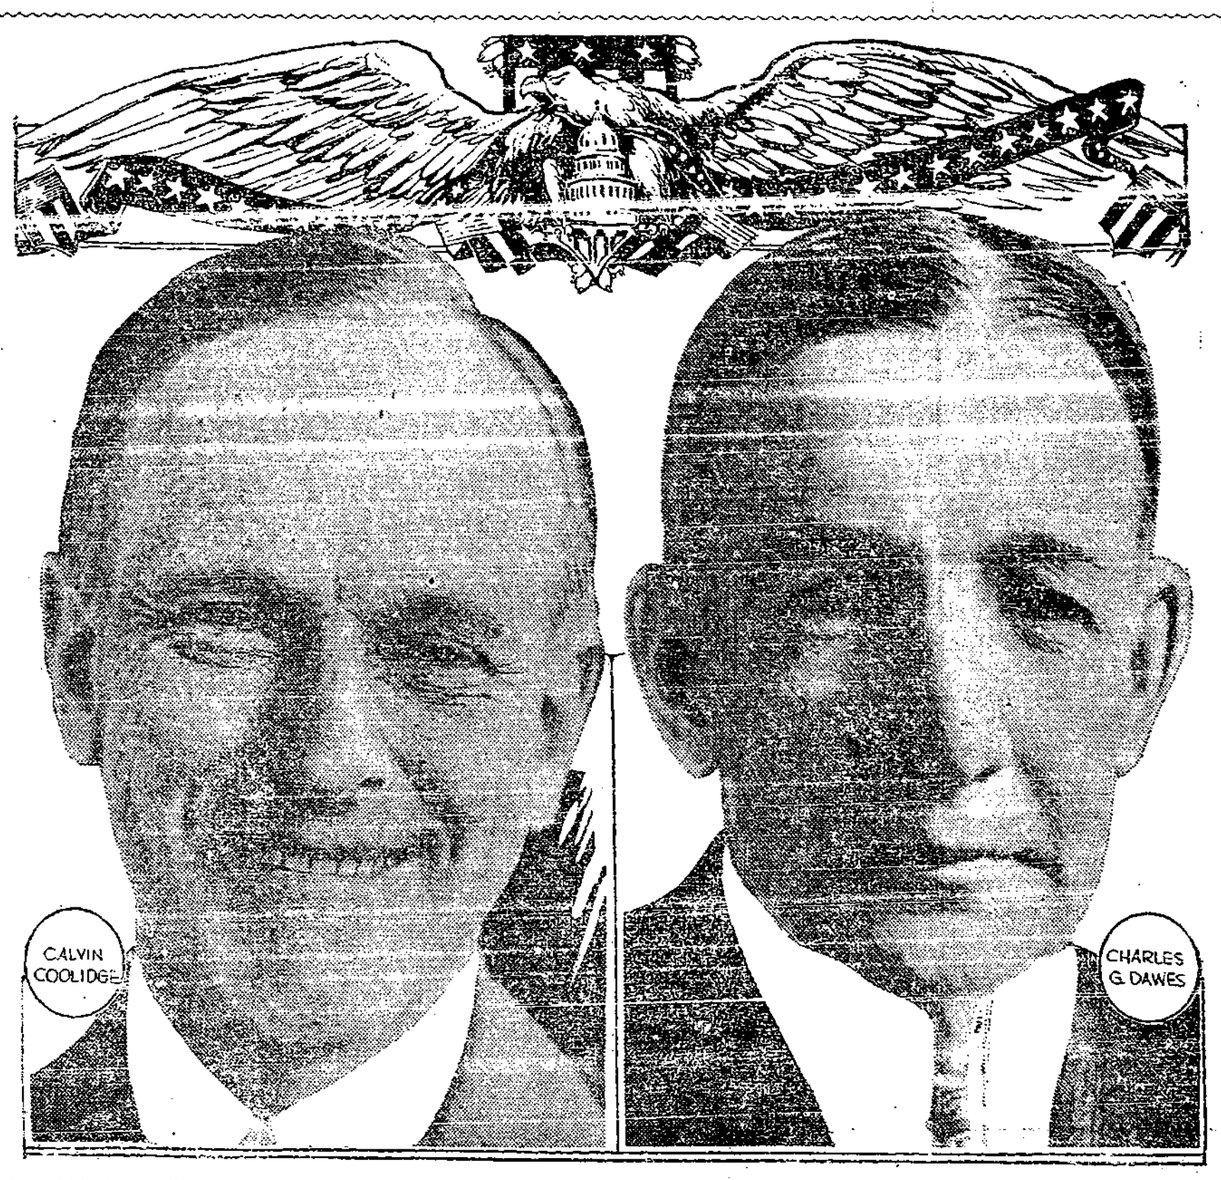
There remained in doubt Missouri, Montana, Nevada, and New Mexico—a total of 28 electoral votes, all of which appeared likely to go into the Coolidge column.

Harrisburg, Nov. 5.—President Coolidge and the entire Republican ticket swept Pennsylvania in the election Tuesday, burying Democrats and the LaFollette ticket under an avalanche of votes, exceeding the total cast in any previous election.

A plurality of more than 500,000 was indicated for Coolidge and Dawes on the basis of returns from half the state's 8,000 election districts.

There were many split tickets in Pennsylvania due to Congressional and legislative contests with the Labor party support of LaFollette and candidates for Congress and the assembly causing delay in making the final count.

In a total of approximately 2,300,000 votes estimated, Coolidge was expected to receive 1,400,000; Davis 550,000, and LaFollette 250,000.



COURTNEY MINER KILLED CROSSING RAILROAD BRIDGE

Joe Ealetsky, Courtney Miner, Loses Life, Trapped On B. & O. Railroad Bridge Crossing At Wheeling Creek, Elm Grove, W. Va.

FELL UNDER ENGINE WHEELS

Ealetsky Is Said to Have Gone to West Virginia About Three Days Ago, Having Secured Employment There—Relatives At Courtney Notified

Joe Ealetsky, 33 years old, a coal miner of Courtney, near Monongahela, was killed instantly Monday night when he was trapped on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad bridge crossing, Wheeling creek, Elm Grove, West Virginia, and was struck by a shifter engine. The body of the man was wellnigh severed by the wheels of the engine.

The unfortunate man is said to have been walking along the bridge, apparently unconscious of the approach of the train. He was struck and knocked to the track, it is said, falling directly under the wheels of the engine. The train crew did not know of the accident until apprised by a pedestrian.

The body was recovered from the bridge, and carried to a morgue, where it was to be prepared for burial. Relatives of the man at Courtney were notified, arrangements for the burial being postponed pending word regarding their wish for disposal of the remains.

Ealetsky is said to have gone to Elm Grove three days ago, having secured employment there. A letter found in his pocket was addressed to his wife, Elizabeth Ealetsky.

The accident is the second in three days occurring on the railroad bridge at Elm Grove, which is on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. On Sunday, John Songolia, a coal miner of Philadelphia fell from the bridge and was seriously hurt on striking rocks in the creek bed. The man, it is alleged, was drunk. He was taken to a hospital and given medical attention.

THE G. O. P. MAKES A CLEAN SWEEP IN CHARLEROI

With an ideal day for an election, as was surmised, the vote in Charleroi and North Charleroi was large, interest being intense. As was expected, the candidates of the G. O. P., inclusive of President Calvin Coolidge, were winners by handsome majorities; in fact the results were so clearly stated by the figures to leave no room for argument. All the various factors which had been used prior to election to "get out the vote" had its bearing, for men and women used their prerogative and were at the polls early, coming and going until closing time.

The proposal to hold a constitutional convention in 1926, was defeated 859-377.

Aside from having the candidacies of President Coolidge and Vice President-elect Dawes at heart, local folk were much interested in the campaign of the other men on the ticket, particularly auditor general, representative in congress, and representatives in the general assembly. In all these cases the Republican candidates are elected. The vote by precincts in Charleroi was as follows:

Occupants Of Cars Injured When Machines Collide Early Today

At an early hour this morning two automobiles collided at the corner of Fourth street and Washington avenue injuring several of the occupants and doing great damage to one of the machines.

The car driven by Pete Yeager, an employe of the Macbeth-Evans Glass company and a resident of this place, coming down Fourth street from Lincoln avenue, collided with the machine driven by Steve Noneck, an employe of the H. P. Streichler Construction company, working on the Charleroi-Bentleyville road, who, with two other employes, were rushing an injured man, Charles Slippy, to the Charleroi-Monessen hospital. The impact which was very forceful, was heard throughout the neighborhood, and the machines bearing the injured men was overturned, pinning the men beneath it. They were lacerated and bruised.

The police were soon at the scene of the accident and placed the two drivers under arrest releasing them on a $12 forfeit for a hearing tonight before Burgess Tussing.

The injured persons were taken into the office of Dr. Edwin McKay, where their hurts were given medical attention. Charles Slippy, the man who had been burned about the face on account of a small explosion of gasoline in the concrete mixture earlier in the day, was also given medical attention at the hands of Dr. McKay and returned with the other men to work.

The Yeager car which was slightly damaged, had, besides the driver two women occupants, all of whom were uninjured.

Student Body Holds a Mass Meeting; Fine Spirit Displayed

Led by Head Cheerleader "Bennie" Trnavsky the student body held a pep meeting at High School assembly this morning, which fully demonstrated that they are out to give their team real support at Saturday's game and the rest of the season as well.

Coach Stepaman urged students to get behind the team. He pointed out that the team as a whole is somewhat discouraged by the poor response of the student body while attending games. Sherman Mason, president of the Senior A class called all of the class presidents together and they are to be held responsible for the unit over which they preside. Estella Carroll gave talk on "spirit" and called upon entire student body to "wake up" and get behind the team.

The cheering at the assembly was by far the best this year. The student body has promised to get out for the parade before the game. They will meet at the station square where the parade will organize.

The spirit is fine. Charleroi is confident but not overconfident and they feel that if the best team can win they will have to be satisfied. But you can't find one in the crowd that does not think that Charleroi has the better team. The boys had a good workout again last evening. Every man reported and they are in good condition.

Tickets will be put on sale at Ewing's Drug Store, Piper's Pharmacy and the Grand Pool Room on Friday night. Tickets will also be on sale about the streets aturday morning. Charleroi fans are urged to buy them tickets Friday night as it will help matters as far as handling the crowd at the gate is concerned. Prof. R. G Dean of California advised the Charleroi authorities that the Pennsylvania Railroad agent at California expected 200 people to make the trip by special train. Two sections are being run on Saturday.

Charleroi fans are determined to make Saturday a real half holiday and the management is seeking the best way to handle the situation to the satisfaction of the Charleroi and California fans. It is hoped that there will be nothing but friendly rivalry existing Saturday as we are living in an age where football fans have learned to control their emotions and the old idea of escorting officials and the teams off the field with a body grand of police is passed.

Someone Down in Pittsburgh Made a Mistake And Here Are Some Excuses Offered

Pittsburg sporting writers are falling over each other now, in an effort to make some excuse for Harvey Boyle, in fining Cuddy DeMarco $100 for alleged "indifferent fighting."

Roy Call in the Gazette today says. "Did Cuddy DeMarco deserve that $100 fine plastered on him Monday night because of his failure to knock Pep O'Brien out? That's the question being asked by fans who saw the bout. While it was admittedly a medicore exhibition it is nevertheless this writer's opinion that DeMarco was doing his best. True, he has done better in other bouts, but on Monday night Cuddy was performing the best of which he is now capable.

When a man is doing his best then he doesn't deserve to be fined. To have made it a satisfactory bout Cuddy should have knocked O'Brien out. This he failed to do and because of that he was accused of "indifferent fighting."

Commissioner Boyle knows DeMarco as a better fighter than he showed himself to be Monday night. He saw him on that evening pitted against an admittedly inferior foe. He was sorely disappointed because Cuddy failed to turn the trick in the third round when he apparently had O'Brien groggy. He was so disappointed that he decided DeMarco was not trying hard enough to knock his man out.

Right here we might ask: "Whom did DeMarco ever knock out?" Tony Ross twice and Alex Sims. DeMarco has had around 100 bouts yet he has only scored about four knockours in that time. Further Cuddy seems to be slipping although he is only a youngster barely 20 years old. Then too in O'Brien he had a tough and seasoned foe: a man full of ring cunning capable of assimilating plenty of punishment. DeMarco is a boxer, not a slugger. He was never noted for his wallop. Therefore why should he be expected to knock his man out.

As long as a man is doing his best he doesn't deserve to be fined. Mr. Boyle didn't think he was doing his best while others are of the opinion that with an opponent like O'Brien facing him, Cuddy showed the best he had, bearing in mind that he has softened up.

You often hear a manager say: 'I wouldn't let my boy fight that fellow. He will make him look bad. My boy can beat him but he won't get any glory in doing so. That's the way with O'Brien. He's a bad man to fight. He is beaten often, but has the faculty of making the other fellow look bad in the process of that fellow's victory.

O'Brien had only one weak spot. That was his body. Cuddy would punch him dizzy about the head, but without effect. To knock him out he had to reach the body. O'Brien knew this and protected that part of his anatomy at all times, exposing his head even to do so. Then DeMarco would pepper at his head but without result. It gave the appearance of lacking steam in his blows. Fans saw them land but they were fruitless. Hence Cuddy's 'indifferent fighting.' Hence his fine. There's tricks to the trade in all games. O'Brien took a beating from Cuddy but got his revenge by making the Charleroi boy look bad in the effort.

There is little doubt that DeMarco has gone stale. He is not the rugged, lightning fighter he once was. Success has brought soft living which in turn has softened the man. Cuddy was doing his best Monday, but that best wasn't so good. What he needs is to cut out the soft life and get down to real work.

F P. Waumans, manager of Hugh Manson, takes the warpath against Jim Buchanan of Charleroi because of the latter's assertion that Willie Davies handed Manson a boxing lesson in Clarksburg recently. Waumans declares Manson chased Davies all over the ring from the third on and in the eighth dropped Willie for a short count. But to settle the argument Waumans wants another bout, this to a decision. Manson meets Andy Tenasky in McKeesport tomorrow night in the double windup."

Go-as-You-Please Spelling

We sometimes fancy that strictly correct spelling has been turned into a fetish. Spelling is largely a knack after the first tearful steps have been taken up the slopes of our English Parnasse. The letters come by a sort of instinct. They dance merrily into the right order of themselves. If some good people never can spell with pedantic accuracy, does it matter so very much? "Oh she knew well. Thy love did read by rote and could not spell." To be an immaculate speller is like being a copper-plate caligrapaist. But it remains one of the minor accomplishments at best. Some of the best letters have been illspelt. It is the matter that counts.—London Telegraph.

NO, CUDDY CAN'T FIGHT, BUT THAT'S NOT WHAT HIS OPPONENTS THINK

Cuddy DeMarco, fighting like a classy machine, scored an unquestioned and decisive victory over Chris Newton of Toronto, Canada at Clarksburg, W. Va., last night, in ten of the fastest rounds ever staged in that section. DeMarco, smarting under criticism in his home town last night, boxed and punched his way to a clear game to the last bell.

Once in the eighth round and again in the ninth DeMarco dropped Newton but was unable to finish him, the Canadian being one of the gamest lads ever seen at Clarksburg. Throughout DeMarco carried the fight but found a willing customer in Newton, who relied on a heavy right hand, which twice caught DeMarco on the chin.

Before the bout DeMarco claimed a bad left arm and hand, but went through with the bout rather than disappoint the big crowd which attended.

ENTERTAINS MAN AFTER ATTENDING HIS "FUNERAL"

East Bloomingfield, N. Y., Nov 5—Entertaining a man six years after having attended his "funeral," is the experience of Captain Robert W. Norton, an American Legionnaire of this village, whose house guest recently was James Wilson of Fall River, Mass., and the man Norton thought he buried in France in 1918.

Wilson, a messenger attached to Captain Norton's company, was hit by an exploding shell, October, 1918, and "killed." His identification tag was found and placed on a cross that marked the place where he was laid away. Captain Norton, one rainy, dismal morning, witnessed the service and mourned his friend. It was difficult in the gray dawn to distinguish men, and it was not 'Jimmie' Wilson who was buried, but another. "Jimmie" lay torn and bleeding in the bushes some distance away where he was tossed by the exploding "Big Bertha." After two days he was picked up by a following outfit and sent to a hospital where for two years he lay too ill to communicate with relatives, and not knowing they believed him dead. When he became able, he went back to his home in Fall River, and shortly after, learning his old Skipper's address, the erstwhile captain and chief mourner, received, as it were, a "visit from the dead."

MUCH MONEY IS RAISED FOR THE LENTEN OFFERING

By cleaning windows, washing automobiles, selling newspapers, running errands and doing other odd jobs, the children of the Episcopal church raised a total of $47,500 for their Lenten offering to the church last April. The computation of the offering has just been completed. It is the largest sum ever given to the Episcopal church by it young folks. A year ago the offering totalled $390,853 and the year before that $288,180. Because of this steady rise during the past three years an effort is to be made next year to bring the total up to a round half million.

One of the conditions of the offering is that the children must earn the money themselves. No money supplied by parents or other relatives is accepted. In consequence, thus early the children of the church all over the world are busily occupied in a hundred different ways in making and saving dimes, nickels and pennies for this fund. Indian children out on the reservation make bead work for the fund. Handsome drawn work is made and sold by the little ones in Mexico to swell the fund. Up in Alaska, Esquimaux children make quaint dollies and dispose of them to tourists for their share. Contributions come from China, Japan, the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, and far off East Africa as well as from the West Indies and Brazil. Here in the United States children spend half holidays on Saturdays, carrying bundles for local tradesmen, mowing lawns for the neighbors. A group of enterprising little ones in one diocese collected old newspapers and sold them to a junk man and turned the proceeds over to the fund. One enterprising young miss secured wellknown brand of jelly at wholesale rates from the manufacturer and sold it among her friends at a neat profit for the offering. The Lenten offering is separate and apart from the pennies which the children pledge themselves to contribute weekly for the support of the Episcopal Church's program.

TALK OF SEMI-PRO BASEBALL LEAGUE IN THIS DISTRICT

Talk of a semi-pro league of baseball clubs, to include Charleroi, West Newton, Scottdale, Bellevue, Monongahela, Monessen and teams in the Greater Pittsburgh district is food for the Stove league, already working overtime in Charleroi.

Fans seem to be of the opinion that more interest would be created in semi-pro baseball, if such a league were formed. Too little interest was manifested here this past season, when the merits of the clubs contending with Charleroi for supremacy is considered. It is believed by the fans, inclusive of Manager D. Cleve Mathers, that a semi-pro league would create more interest than now exists. In conversation with Mr Mathers he said that it "is a long time before the season of 1925 will be ushered in, and I had no idea of just what the personnel of next year's club here will be," but that he hopes to have an even better team than that which represented Charleroi this year, could be deduced from his attitude and remarks.

It is pointed out that a semi-pro league, once formed, would be of immense interest in, that by the schedule, the clubs would rotate, and the fans would look forward to and know just who Charleroi's opponent was to be in the "next game." Then, too, a league would be officered, and it is likely that the players would be drawn—experience of Captain Robert W. Norton—that no one team would have a monopoly of strenth.

Huge Demand for Ivory

It is estimated that to supply the world's needs of ivory the tusks of nearly 40,000 elephants are required every year. A certain amount of ivory is also obtained from the teeth of hippotami, walruses, narwhals, sperm whales and wild boars.

Ruined by Ridicale

One line ruined the whole of a splendid play "Sophonisba" written in 1730 by James Thomson. The line read, "O, Sophonisba, Sophonisba O!" It was immediately parodied everywhere. 'O Jemmy Thomson, Jemmy Thomson O."

NORMAL TEAM WILL NOT PLAY HERE FRIDAY

It has been decided to move the West Virginia Freshmen game to California, Friday, November 7. It was originally scheduled for Charleroi on the same date. The Normal plays Altoona Apprentice school in Charleroi Armistice Day, Nov. 11, however and the high school game between Charleroi and California comes on Saturday Nov 8. All of these contests in a row would probably hurt the crowd at each and for that reason the Freshmen will be met in California at three-thirty Friday of this week.

Captain Brown, Griffith, McLaughlin, Haug, Leach, Sladdin and Krause are all out of the game this week and the Normal will be hard pressed to win by any sort of score from the Freshmen.

Got Mild Intoxicant From "Peyote" Plant

"Peyote (pronounced pay-yo-tay, with accent on second syllable) is the Mexican form of the Aztec "peyotl," meaning a caterpillar. The Aztecs applied "peyotl" to a species of cone-like plants in southern Mexico because of the downy growth on the roots. A mild intoxicant was made by the Indians from this plant. Later peyote came to be applied to a small spineless cactus which grows in northern Mexico and the southwestern part of the United States. This cactus is found in abundance along the Rio Grande.

The small tops which bear the pretrude above the ground are often called "mescal buttons," mescal being another name for peyote. From the dried tops is made a mescal used as a remedy for various ailments. But the chief use of peyote is in certain religious ceremonies. It exhilarates the mind, intensifies the imagination and produces a pleasant dreaminess, without, however, any disagreeable effects later. At least this is what the authorities report.

The peyote is taken at intervals during the ceremonies which last through out the night. Originally all the redmen in that region chewed mescal. In recent years the peyote religion has spread among the Indians in Oklahoma and farther north. Some tribes look upon the plant as of divine origin and treat it with veneration. There is no English name which we know of for peyote.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Ants Sensitive to Sound

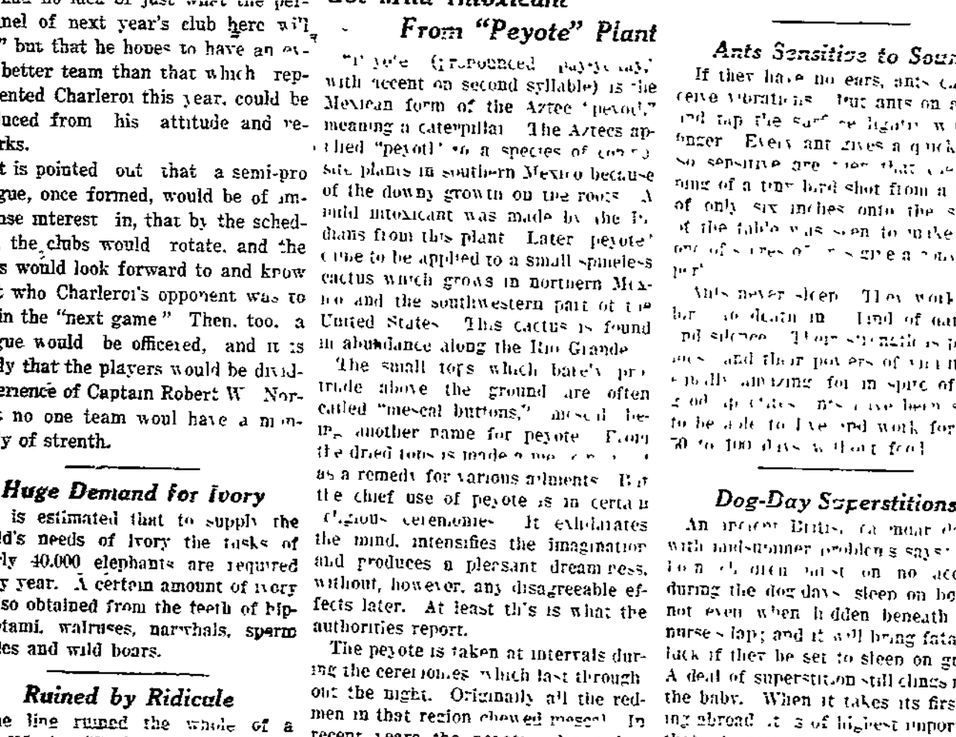
If they have no ears, ants can perceive vibrations. Put ants on a table and tap the surface lightly with the finger. Every ant gives a quick start, so sensitive are they that the dropping of a tiny bird shot from a height of only six inches onto the surface of the table was seen to make every one of a large number of ants start.

Ants never sleep. They work from birth to death in land of darkness and silence. Their strength is prodigious, and their powers of activity are equally amazing for in spite of their small size ants have been shown to be able to live and work for from 70 to 100 days without food.

Dog-Day Superstitions

An ancient Britis, in manner dealing with midsummer problems says: New born children must on no account during the dog days sleep on bones—not even when hidden beneath their nurse's lap; and it will bring fatal bad luck if they be set to sleep on graves. A deal of superstition still clings round the baby. When it takes its first airing abroad it is of highest importance that it goes upstairs before going down, or it will never rise in the world. In rural cottages, blessed with the old-fashioned wooden cradle, the superstition clings to it that to rock the empty cradle is to rock into it a new baby.

Illinois Seen as Champs After Iowa Victory



Illinois is now considered certain to cop the "Big Ten" grid title as a result of its impressive victory over Iowa. "Red" Grange, Illini star, did not make any marathon runs for touchdowns, but did score two markers and gained almost at will. His forward passes were responsible for the Illini victory. He is shown in a dash in the third quarter just before he was downed by Speed Kelly and three tacklers, to bring him down, as seen in the insert.

Giant Thistle, Grown on Coast, in Demand

Among the profitable crops grown by Californians in the region of San Francisco is a giant Mediterranean species of thistle. Soil and climate there seem to be exactly suited to its needs, says the Pathfinder Magazine. Attempts to grow it elsewhere have invariably resulted in failure. Like the thistles with which all are familiar, it has formidable spines, only they are longer and more cruel than the average. It has a large purple flower, so sweet scented that bees find it irresistible. Rarely, however, are the buds allowed to develop into flowers, for the buds are esteemed as a table delicacy, being harvested and sold as "artichokes."

A quarter apiece for the buds is not an unusual price in San Francisco and at that they take precedence over the finest oranges, raisins, apricots, etc., for the growers craftily time their development so that they may be marketed just at the psychological moment, so to speak—that is, in midwinter, when there is little else of the same nature to compete with them. This is done by cutting back the plants in June, pruning them down to the ground. Within a short time new shoots appear. Then if plant food and water are supplied in sufficient abundance the long sunshiny days bring about ideal development.

The harvest begins in October and reaches its peak about the first of April.

Hard-Working Burglar Forced to Draw Line

Bert met his old friend Bill the Burglar and the two got chatting about things in general.

"I hear you've left your wife," remarked Bert presently. "Why did you do that?"

"Because she was always wantin' me to do somethin'," snarled the burglar moodily.

"What do you mean?" asked his friend.

"No matter how busy or tired I was, she was always naggin' me to do somethin' for her. At last, one night, it was too much."

"How was that?" said the other, interested.

"Well, I came in about three o'clock in the morning," explained Bill, "all worn out from doing too much work. I had opened two strong boxes and finished up by forcing a couple of safes, to say nothing of a vault I cracked earlier in the evening. An' then, when I got in, what do you suppose that woman wanted me to do?"

"What?"

"As I stand here, it's true!" growled Bill the Burglar. "She wanted me to open a box of sardines for her."—London Answers.

Earthworms Valuable

Earthworms play a very important part in the formation of soil. Indeed Charles Darwin demonstrated that they are of incalculable value to agriculture. Angleworms feed on vegetable matter exclusively and in burrowing they take more or less earth into the alimentary canal where it is mixed with the vegetable food of the worm. Nearly all of this passes out with the castings which are always voided on the surface. Thus the worms are continually engaged in spreading a "natural compost" over the land. The process is called the formation of vegetable mold which is fertile both because of its composition and because the worms keep it stirred up and well aerated. Of course many other creatures are beneficial in the formation of soil, but the earthworms are the most important.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Polo Has Long History

There is no game today, with a longer history and one so consistently romantic as that of polo. Over 100 years ago polo was first observed in Persia by early European travelers, like Sir William Ouseley and Sir Anthony Shirley. The latter quoted his forerunner, the Italian Pietro della Valle who, in 1618, had found polo under the patronage of Shah Abbas, and remarked that "It was a favorite recreation of kings and chiefs, and originally, I believe, considered as almost peculiar to illustrious personages." The French traveler Chardin says the Persians played with 30 or 40 on a side, though the Persian miniatures remind us that even then three or four-sided teams were common. Another traveler calls it "the game of Canes."

Pledges Eternal Love to Husband Who Shot Two to Get Her Back

Ruth Mahan, 19, of Norfolk county, Va., left her husband, James, 26, veteran of the A. E. F., and returned to her father's house, a week after they were married. James followed, and after several unsuccessful attempts to see her, he shot her father and brother and carried her off. When he learned that the victims would not die he surrendered. Now Ruth say she loves her husband more than ever, and that nothing can ever part them again.

THE PEOPLE WIN.

In a campaign in which John W. Davis and Robert M. LaFollette sought election to the highest office within the gift of the people of the United States, victory rests with President Coolidge, primarily, and secondly, with the people, whose will has been sustained. Invective of the president and his policies, recriminations, were political capital for President Coolidge and the Republican party; and assurance that the people at the polls have confidence in the president and his policies, and believe that it is for the country's best interests that the head of the affairs at Washington be controlled at the hands of a man who has a will of his own; is actuated solely through honest and conscientious motives in his prerogatives as president, solely for the country's good. Brought up under the strict training which dominates in New England homesteads, President Coolidge is the soul of honor, devoid of guile, an honest and true patriot, whose brief administration of the affairs of the country shows him to be a man of the people, not dominated and controlled by the interests. President Coolidge's victory is a triumph for character, for ability, and for a steadfastness of purpose unequaled in the history of presidents.

Through the election the people in popular vote evidenced that the campaign of vituperative methods of Davis and LaFollette were not countenanced. Methods of criticism employed by both Davis and LaFollette recoiled on their own heads and were political capital for the president and his policies. The people are to be congratulated in the success of the president, for it means confidence in the future will be maintained and a vigorous enforcement of those policies of the president and his advisors which will mean for public weal.

The Mail also desires to extend its congratulations to the victors in local candidacies, and also to the people as a whole for the wisdom and patriotism which they evidenced in rolling up such handsome Republican majarities.

SATURDAY'S CONTEST.

Charleroi fans and the public generally in this locality are hoping that Charleroi High will again emerge from the conflict, however strenuous, a winner, on Saturday. The locals have the utmost respect for California, but they are not going to let that respect and spirit of fairness interfere with their endeavors to annex the victory Saturday afternoon. Prospects for the largest attendance of the season is assured.

By winning every game in which they have contested thus far this year, Charleroi High is entitled to great credit for the showing made. Their record redounds alike to the fame of coach and players, and as the players have comported themselves as gentlemen, both on and off the field, they are entitled to the public support and confidence which is theirs.

Now, Charleroi, we expect you to win from California; and we believe we voice the sentiments of community folk as a whole in trusting, even hoping, that you will annex the W. P. I. A. L. championship. The class is there, and if the players will only obey the instructions of their coach and maintain harmony in their ranks, the greatly coveted goal, the W. P. I. A. L. honors will be attained. Which would mean great honors, not only for the team, for Charleroi High school, but for the players, individually and collectively.

The most novel of the campaign arguments is presented in the Williamsport, Pa., Sun by Roy H. Harer, a farmer in Lycoming county of the same State. He complains that for several years past, deer have trampled his wheat and greatly damaged his crops of clover and oats. "This year deer have destroyed about 40 bushels [illegible] also wheat, clover [illegible] apples." Mr. Harer [illegible] $800 and vania under a Republican administration is worse than Germany," for "in Germany the deer are fenced in." Therefore he refuses any longer to vote the Republican ticket and thinks it is "to every farmer's interest" to do likewise.

The Chinaman who starved to death while being smuggled into this country in a packing case might as well have got into a coffin in the first place and shipped for another world.

It is announced that for the first time in 84 years the Amoskeg Manufacturing Company, described as the largest cotton concern of the kind in the world, has been compelled to pass its dividend. And yet those 84 years have included not a few panics, many milder business depressions, and all varieties of governmental policies at Washington. What is the answer?

Noting that the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce claims that a negro laborer can live on $34 a year less than a white laborer, the Daily Worker (Communist) of Chicago indignantly demands to know why. Well, for one thing, the negro laborer's standard of comfort, like that of the immigrant from Europe, is not supposed to be quite up to that of the white American lab[illegible]

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, after interviewing four hundred representative families," has decided that Philadelphians drink milk because they like it and not merely because they judge it to be healthful food. Of course, if the people of ennsylvania like to be taxed to pay for such activities, that is their own affairs.

The famous letter of Mrs Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, which was suppressed, but finally got into print, indirectly attributes the breakdown of enforcement in Pennsylvania to influence of that State's two senators and to the failure of the President to remove certain wilfully inefficient Federal attorneys.

Silent, white and cold,
Oh, friend, the agony I felt,

We've lived together but a year,

That toiled so hard for me

My Ingersoll had stopped.

The Basilisk in Legend

The basilisk is a fabulous creature, resembling a serpent, and supposed by the ancients to inhabit the Libyan desert It was described as being of a yellowish color with spots of white and as having a pointed head, whereon stood one or more prominences, also white, resembling a diadem Its breath was considered to be especially poison-basilisk is now applied to a sort of lizard.

Doubtful Compliment

"The right kind of man appreciates a compliment from his wife" 'Well," said Mr. Bibbles, thoughtfully, "that depends on the circumstances Sometimes I don't feel a very glow of satisfaction stealing over me after I have rehearsed a carefully connected story to explain my absence from the domestic hearth, and the wife tells me with a cynical smile that I'm truly gifted.'"

Cream an After Thought

When tea was first drunk in Europe nobody thought of mixing it with milk, though it was customary to sweeten it with sugar or sugar candy. Mme. De Sevigne, writing to her daughter in 1680, mentions as an eccentric proceeding on the part of Mme De La Sablere that "she drinks milk in her tea' Coffee, too, was then drunk without milk.

Was a "Bear Cat."

"My wife was never an angel, but after five years of liver and stomach trouble she became a "bearcat." No doctor or medicine helped her and we thought there was no help for her. Our grocer told me of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy which had helped him for same trouble, so I brought home a bottle, but she promptly threw it out. I got it back and after a week coaxed her into taking it She is now enjoying the best of health and disposition." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

"Good Bye Winter!" When the Sunny Caribbean Beckons

When the incomparable Melba the Australian songbird sang "Good Bye, Summer!" she warbled a mouthful, to use the popular speech of the street; but nowadays Melba would make even a bigger hit if she were to sing "Good Bye.

Winter!" and throw a West Indies cruise ticket in with the number.

The chap in the accompanying picture was cheering for summer on a cold New York pier in January as the "Empress of Britain" with a happy load of travelers was leaving New York for a trip of 29 days to the sunny, palm-crowned islands of the storied West Indies and the mainland of South America. As a woman enjoys the inalienable privilege of changing her mind, so a ship can change her name and be just as good a ship as she ever was. The "Empress of Britain," is now the "Montroyal," named after a wonderful mountain towering over the great Canadian city of Montreal, and on Jan. 20 and Feb. 21, 1925, the "Montroyal" is to make her seventh and eighth voyages to Summerland in the romantic and historic Caribbean. She is of 23,500 tons displacement and some 15,650 tons gross register, and, being an oil-burner, old King Coal never has a chance to go aboard and smudge the white decks of her passengers.

Bermuda, the Bahamas, Porto Rico, one of Uncle Sam's possessions, Martinique, famous for the tragedy of St. Pierre, Trinidad, La Guayra and Caracas on the north shore of South America, Curacao, in the Dutch West Indies, Cartagena in Colombia, Colon and the world-famed Panama Canal, Kingston, the port of Jamaica, Port au Prince, in Hayti, and Havana, the picturesque capital of Cuba, the Queen of the Antilles—these with their strange peoples, strange customs and eternal summer, welcome a cruise ship and make their visitors almost as much at home and almost as comfortable as they are when aflost on the blue seas.

One of many interesting side trips is that to Colon and Panama, part way by rail and through the famous Culebra Cut of the Panama Canal by steamer. In Panama city tourists are shown the ruins of Old Panama which was sacked by Morgan, the pirate, in 1671. At Gatun they see the great locks which lift and lower the largest steamships passing through Uncle Sam's wonderful canal across the Isthmus of Panama

Today and Yesterday

FEW youngsters to-day ever saw a horse-hair sofa. They wouldn't know what to do with a fire taper, carpet stretcher, or coal oil lamp. They couldn't braid rags into a rug, or wind yarn without tangling. But they know the how and why of typewriters, phonographs, radios, telephones, automobiles; what happens when a push of the button gives light, or a kodak's flash fixes their image on paper.

Their education is as modern as the advertisements they see. They have no more use for the lamp and chimney of yesterday than you for the wick and tallow of the day before.

Advertisements induce such progress. They urge wide use that means improvement. They help you lift the out-of-date into the attic—rid you of the water buckets and soap kettles of slavedom. They bring late improvements within your reach.

Read the advertisements regularly. Keep alert to the new.

Without advertising, you would never know a product's worth until you had bought it

Savings Deposits

There are many people who delay the opening of a Savings Account because they feel that a small deposit will not be welcome and that it is better to wait until they have accumulated a considerable sum. Too often they keep on waiting.

The First National Bank wants you to know that we welcome Savings deposits in any amount from $1.00 upwards and that the size of the account does not matter so much. The REGULARITY with which you save means more to us—and to you—than the amount deposited.

The High Cost of "No Money"

Men and women by the thousands pay a heavy tax each year in lost chances to gain advancement, or a business of their own, or the home their hopes have centered on, or some other goal.

They pay it because they have failed to put aside a portion of their earnings each week, as a reserve fund for just such a time of need as Opportunity often brings.

Young and Old alike pay this levy.

Now's the best time ever to start a fund that will enable you to dodge such a tax.

Here's the place.

Hindustan Proverb

If you ask the hungry man how many are two and two, he replies four loaves.

A Scenery Hill youth, whose name it isn't convenient to recall, met his Waterloo one evening last week when on furtive mischief bent, he slipped away from home believing it would be the easiest thing in the world to go out for a little lark and get back without his parents finding it out.

He had never engaged in any real Hallowe'en sport before and aching for some thrills along that line he sallied forth to an adjoining village for his first adventure. He was about staging a stunt that if successfully pulled off would afford bushels of fun. But he reckoned without his host. A small animal of nocturnal habits, unexpectedly bobbed up and disputed the youth's right of entrance into his territory. The argument was brief but decisive. The youth finding the little creature's mode of defense very offensive beat a hasty retreat while the mephitis mephitica chuckled of how easy it was to establish "Who's Who" in its particular domain.

Nor was the young man getting back and to bed "without his parents finding it out" any more of a success. It is true he stole cautiously into the house and crept quietly to bed, but despite his precautions the stifling odor he carried with him spoke louder than words. His parents and other members of the household awoke to a horrible sense of suffocation. Some fearing indeed that burglars were about who were injecting some fearful knockout through the keyhole. However, the parents were quick to diagnose the case and with some explanations from the son, the atmosphere was cleared of its mystery if not its fragrance.

Billy Sunday suggests that men praise their wives to make them angelic. If some men we know ever praised their wives the shock would make them angels at once.
